

Brisbane History Group Papers Series No 29

Edited by Barry Shaw

This publication is one of our largest volumes to date, with a total of sixteen chapters. The papers were drawn primarily from presentations made at four of our seminars namely 'Victoria Barracks and the Defence of the Colony', 'The Peace', 'Anzac Square: Development and Anzac centenary refurbishment', and 'Lest We Forget: Milne Bay – Gona – Sanananda'. The extended timeframe and diversity of topics caused some difficulty in deciding upon a title.

Topics include British regiments stationed at Moreton Bay, the threats posed by European powers in colonial times, the 1914-18 War – impact on individuals and families, and the treatment of aliens, the Brisbane Anzac Square and South Brisbane memorials, 1939-45 War - the battles at Gona, Buna and Sanananda, medics and medicines, and the participation of the Dutch supply ships, the photographic work of Damien Parer, and American and Australian camps within the Brisbane region.
